

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

This document provides a set of questions that can be used at framework or call off level to further investigate potential suppliers' commitments and plans to manage their organisations and supply chains in accordance with the UN Sustainable Development Goals.

With sector wide commitment and an input from SUPC, LUPC, NEUPC, and NWUPC, this standard set of questions will allow suppliers to report on what they have achieved so far, what they are committing to do in the future and how this set of questions can help them to make positive changes to their organisations and demand better through their supply chains.

This document has been produced as a joint project by: NEUPC: Debbie Shore and Talvinder Sihra, NWUPC: Helen Dodd-Williams, LUPC: Marisol Bernal, and SUPC: Jayne Thorn.

If you have any additional questions or areas you would like addressed, please email supc@reading.ac.uk

736 million people live in extreme poverty – living on less than $1.90 a day. Many lack food, clean water, and sanitation.

Women are more likely to face poverty than men, because they have less paid work, education, and own less property.

These questions can be aimed at all suppliers, across all categories. Being paid a living wage should be a right, not a luxury.

Question	Category	When?
What is your organisation doing to promote national living wage and real living wage over national minimum wage?	General	Call off
What initiatives or proactive steps has your organisation taken to ensure that those employed within your supply chain are paid a living wage?	General	Framework

Women earn only 77cents for every dollar that men get for the same work.

The United Nations Development Programme has made gender equality central to its work and there has been remarkable progress in the past 20 years. There are more girls in education now compared to 15 years ago, and most regions have reached gender parity in primary education.

Although legislation has been in place for 50 years, the gender pay gap in Britain remains the highest in Europe. The Times Higher Education published reports in 2018 and 2019 highlighting that the gender pay gap had reduced from 15.9% to 15.1% in education, which is still significantly higher the 9.1% average gender pay gap.
